THE CONNECTICUT CAMPUS

HIGH SCHOOL JUDGING TEAM HERE TODAY

VOL. XI

STORRS, CONNECTICUT, FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1925

NO. 21

M. J. FARREL RESIGNS POSITION AT COLLEGE

MOVING TO WILLIMANTIC

Leaves After Seven Years on the Hill
To go into Painting Business for Himself—Loss Much Felt.

An informal tea will be given to Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Farrell, at Holcomb Hall between three and five p.m. on Sunday, April 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Farrell came to the Hill in 1918, when "Mike" as he is intimately known to everyone on the campus, relinquished his position with a firm of painting contractors in Boston and took the position of Master Painter at the college.

Coming here with a background of theatrical experience, an excellent tenor voice, and a wealth of musical talent, Mr. Farrell was a valuable addition to the dramatic and musical organizations on the Hill. No entertainment on the Hill during his sojourn here has been considered complete without "Mike" taking part or serving as director or coach.

Mr. Farrell's first work here was to take over the coaching of dramatic club plays and at the Junior Prom of 1918, he produced "Prince and Buckskins" by E. R. Thomas. Among the many successes he has directed since then are "Paid in Full," "Three Live Ghosts," "Officer 666," "Stop Thief," "Billeted," and "It Pays to Advertise." In recognition of his earnest and successful work, Mr. Farrell was elected an honorary member of Theta Alpha Phi, the honorary dramatic society.

"Mike", however, has not confined himself solely to dramatics. Besides helping to produce two Blackguard shows, he became director of the Glee Club, and in 1920 and 1921 he guided the Club, then an organization of thirty members, through two of its most successful seasons.

Mrs. Farrell, like her husband, has willingly given her time, ability and experience to the dramatic and musical enterprises of Storrs. She has developed and directed the Girls' Glee Club for the past two years, during which time the Club produced the "Yokohama Maid." Mrs. Farrell was also the prime mover in the May Day celebration of two years ago staged by the Co-eds.

Next Monday Mr. Farrell leaves for the Dupont Duco Factory to learn the Duco lasquer spray system. After May 1 he will be located in Willimantic with the Windham Duco Company which he and Mr. Mahoney have organized.

In their departure this talented and popular couple carry with them the well wishes of everyone on the Hill.

HIGH SCHOOL JUDGING CONTEST SATURDAY

WOODFORD CUP AWARDED

Eight Judging Teams Entered in Contests—To Judge Poultry, Animal Husbandry, Crops, Dairy Husbandry and Farm Management.

The Agricultural Club of the College will be the host to high school students in agriculture from all parts of the State next Saturday, when the annual High School Judging Contest will be held at Storrs.

Archie Holdridge, '25, supervisor of student judging announced that teams from the following high schools had already accepted invitations to enter the competition: New Milford, Woodbury, Glastonbury, Willimantic, Newtown, Southington, Danielson and No. Stonington. There are several schools yet to be heard from.

Contests will be held in poultry husbandry, animal husbandry, agronomy, farm management and dairy husbandry. Each school will send a five-man team to Storrs, with a man to judge in each of the respective classes. Medals will be awarded to the high men in each class, and the much sought Woodford Farm Cup will be presented to the team which makes the best showing as a group. New Milford has won the cup for the past two years, and if their representatives are able to repeat again this year, New Milford will gain permanent possession of the trophy.

As in past years, the Agricultural Club will hold a banquet in the evening in the college dining hall. The Woodford Farm Cup, and the medals will be presented at this time, after which the high school students will be entertained by a program that will include music and speakers.

Student committees on the judging contest, as recently announced by President George E. Wells, are: Poultry, W. Hutton, '25, H. Woodward, '25, M. E. Coe, '25; Animal Husbandry, Foster Weiss, '25, J. R. Jacoby, '25, H. W. Wardle, '26; Agronomy, C. Clark, '27, D. Anderson, '27, J. Lyman, '28; Farm Management, M. Seymour, '26, H. Greer, '26, C. C. Smith, '26; Dairy, W. Johnson, '26, L. Smith, '27, R. Mason, '27; Banquet, R. R. Hill, '25, J. Woodford, '27, V. Doolittle, '27; Reception, D. Gaylord, '27, J. Breitweisser, '27, J. Fienneman, '27; Awards, A. G.

On Sunday, April 26th, from three to five, there will be an informal reception for Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Farrell at Holcomb Hall. Everyone who is personally interested in them or in what they have contributed to the Storrs community are invited to be present.

STUDENT SPEAKERS AT PRESIDENT'S HOUR

ANNUAL ACTIVITIES DAY

Prominent Students Address Assembly on Their Respective Activities—

After the award of letters to basketball and football men in Assembly Wednesday, Doctor Denlinger explained the program for the morning. It was what is known as Activities Day, the purpose being to acquaint the students with activities here on the Hill. In accordance with this, several students each representing his activity would give a short talk. He then introduced George Warrek, editor-in-chief of the Campus. Mr. Warrek in his remarks made a plea for a more active interest on the part of the student body for their weekly publication. He said that while it has worked under difficulties this year, he hopes that next year the freshmen, sophomores and even juniors will contribute news and come out for the Board, thus helping to support the paper and in that way the college as a whole.

Irene Cook, president of the Women's Student Government gave a short history of this representative body at Holcomb Hall.

Milton Moore was then called on to speak for the Nutmeg and the Dramatic Club.

The Purpose of the Ag Club was the topic of George Wells' talk.

Representing the Debating Club, Pete Hutton told of its development.

John Balock, president of the A.A., showed how the purpose of the association was to supervise and promote athletics here on the hill.

Val Johnson explained how representative government among the students was carried on here.

Avery, '25.

Besides Mr. Wells, other officers of the Agricultural Club are: W. G. Kielwasser, vice-president; Donald B. Humphrey, treasurer; and J. L. Breitweisser, secretary.

The Connecticut Aggies lost the opening baseball game of the season to Brown University at Providence last Saturday by the score of 5-1.

Brown placed a veteran baseball team on the diamond and it was not the first game of the season for the Providence Collegians as they had begun their season earlier. The Aggies went up against fast pitching for the first time this year and were unable to solve the offerings of Neubauer and Trumbower, who yielded but five hits.

The teams battled on even terms up to the third inning when Brown scored its first run. In the fourth and fifth innings the Brunoians bunched their hits and scored two runs in each stanza, bringing their score up to five.

The Aggies made their only score in this inning on singles by Horn and Gilbert and a sacrifice hit by O'Brien. The feature of the game was also made in this inning when Seymour made a running catch of Trumbower's fly.

Connecticut State is credited with a good showing, despite their defeat, against a more experienced nine. The team fielded well for the opening contest and gives indications of developing into a fast team. George Wells as varsity pitcher for his second season pitched a good game and had the Aggies been stronger at the bat the outcome would have been different.

Dixon and Neubauer were the heavy hitters for Brown, the former getting a double and the latter a triple.

Wells, Schofield and O'Brien fielded brilliantly for the Nutmeg team.

THE COMMUNITY HOUSE CAMPAIGN

The students responded in a very creditable manner with their personal contributions thus far toward the Community House fund. We say: On with the work. There are still some students who have not signed up for any amount. Perhaps they are not exceedingly wealthy and can not afford the liberal sum so consistently pledged. If this be the case, we urge them to fear not. We want only the contributions which can be obtained without too great a sacrifice. Everyone should pledge some small amount, however, not for the amount alone, but for the idea involved and the feeling it should give us. A feeling that we are a part of the College and its future dreams and plans and ambitions, a feeling that we leave college with the satisfying knowledge that we have helped substantially in her growth.

The other phase of the student's campaign is still in an embryo state. Perhaps the Easter vacation was too short for any creditable showing but the fact remains that the major work in this phase of the campaign must be continued for the rest of the college year, and on through the summer. Once started, we feel that much can be accomplished by student solicitations. Of course, there are many sections which are not "sold" on the idea yet. This will come along in time, however, and then the men in that section can do their work. Some successful solicitation has already been accomplished, but we have only made a beginning.

In the meantime, all subscription books which will not be put to any use should be handed in, either to members of the Campaign Committee or to the class presidents. Each student should decide what he or she will do from now until college ends and also during the summer vacation. Solicitation books and material may be secured from members of the campaign committee and class presidents or at Prof. Dodge's office.

Outline your individual campaign NOW!

THE A. A. FIELD

Some years ago, when the college was still in its infancy, our fair campus was littered with rocks. Rocks of all sizes; and they greatly marred the beauty of the college grounds. (Old graduates will tell you stories about these rocks.) Money, as usual, was not readily available with which to clear the campus of the rocks, and so it was left to voluntary student labor to clean up after the glacier. At that time there were few students and their pockets were no better lined with silver than ours. But they set to work, and in due time the campus began to assume a more regular loveliness. We now benefit by the labor of our predecessors. That is our simple sermon. No class goes out without being benefited by what succeeding classes have contributed or made possible. No graduating class should leave without adding something to the college. Only in this way can the Connecticut Agricultural College progress. Only in this way can any college progress. Our chance is before us. The diligence and hard work we put into the A. A. field project will test our loyalty and the ability to see further than our own shoe-strings.

THE PROFESSOR'S CAMPUS

There have been complaints from the faculty to the effect that they have a hard time getting their papers. The circulation manager was notified very early in the year about this and he has endeavored to accommodate the professors in this particular. We have very good evidence to believe, however, that those persons who get the mail from the faculty boxes do not regard the "Campus" as private property. If the various people who procure their mail from the same box would get together and unanimously agree to "lay off" all "Campuses" except their own, the board would appreciate it very much indeed.

SENIOR CAPS AND GOWNS
TO APPEAR APRIL 29

April 29 will signal the first appearance of the seniors in their caps and gowns. They will form a line in the Trophy Room and march into the Armory, at the Assembly Hour, following the custom of last year's class.

The Class of '24 was the first one to establish this custom of wearing caps and gowns, which we hope is on the road toward making itself

Perhaps their freshman dorm idea isn't just what it ought to be. When the pledglings are scattered among their elder brethren there is less chance of a gang getting together and holding a "woe" party in order to weep their trials and tribulations on each others shoulders. In the old days the upperclassmen were in close touch with a freshman's woes and he could very nicely talk a chap into a more collegiate state of mind when in the "dumps."

Yes, some go so far as to call the freshman dorm proposition one of the biggest failures in our humble history. (Food for thought).

ACCIDENT BEFALLS
PROFESSOR OF HISTORY

DRIVES THROUGH FENCE

Dr. Henry K. Denlinger Drives into Cow Pasture near Mansfield Center.—Lights go out at Critical Moment.

Prof. H. K. Denlinger, on his way from Storrs to "Willy", last Saturday night at about 8 o'clock, drove off the road, through a fence, and parked his Chevrolet along side of some handy bushes in a cow pasture one mile this side of Mansfield Center.

The Doctor, although somewhat mollified, escaped unhurt, his car remaining in an upright position throughout.

A car coming from the opposite direction, passed Dr. Denlinger and influenced the Chev's lighting apparatus to such an extent that both lamps went out. The next thing happened very quickly. The doctor lost his sense of direction, turned sharply to the right and drove through the pasture fence. Luckily no cows were in the way so the doctor had a clear field.

Prof. I. G. Davis was the first to reach the scene of the accident and he was soon joined by Oscar D'Esopo who also happened to spot the unhappy plight of the professor of history. They succeeded in soothing the doctor until the baseball team, coming home from Providence, arrived on the scene of action. The whole team set to with alacrity, a long chain was fastened to the ditched car, and it was soon yanked back on the road. Harold Wardle drove the car back to Storrs; the doctor being bundled in with the baseball men, it being generally agreed that he had done enough driving for one night.

Waugh, who is also attached to the Economic Department at C.A.C.

Mr. Waugh was first introduced to the college when he assisted Prof. Hendrickson, who was in charge of the marketing trip to the metropolis. by taking the class in charge during a visit of the government market-price reporting offices.

MONTEITH SOCIETY TO HEAR MRS. DAVIS

Last Meeting of Year to be Held on Monday, April 27—"Art Appreciation" to be Topic of Address.

Mrs. I. G. Davis of Storrs, faculty advisor to the Monteith Arts Society, will speak to the members at the meeting scheduled for Monday evening, April 27, at 7:45 o'clock. Mrs. Davis has chosen for her topic "Art Appreciation" and will illustrate her lecture by playing appropriate records. Following the program there will be an important business meeting at which the election of officers for next year will take place.

The meeting on Monday is the last regular one for this semester and will conclude the work which was to be covered this year. By meeting twice a month the club has been able to take up a goodly list of subjects, among which were "Modern Music," "Famous Writers who are Natives of Connecticut," "Modern Poetry," "Art Appreciation," "Etching," "Bills before the Present Legislature," and many others. The members were fortunate in being able to hear Miss E. W. Whitney, Miss J. Hicks of the League of Women Voters, Mr. Wm. Hasleur, Mrs. M. E. Dakin, Dr. H. K. Denlinger, Mr. G. Saul and Mrs. I. G. Davis.

Under the present regime, the acquisition of a Monteith Reading Room has been brought about where are kept the more popular periodicals and a few donated books, the modest beginning of a fiction library. The high spot in the history of the society was, without a doubt, the receipt of a picture in oils representing a scene from the New Jersey countryside which was painted by William Hasleur and given to the Monteith Arts by the artist and Dr. H. K. Denlinger, intimate friend of the late Professor Monteith. The hanging of the picture, somewhere on the first floor in Holcomb Hall, will be arranged for during this week.

AGGIES BATTLE WESLEYAN TO TIE DARKNESS HALTS GAME

Aggies Lead for Most of Game—A Rally in Eighth Ties for Red and Black—Nanfeldt Pitches Good Ball

Last Wednesday the Aggie nine journeyed to Middletown and battled to a 6-6 tie with Wesleyan, the game being called after the ninth inning on account of darkness.

Connecticut took the lead in the first inning and held it until the eighth, when Funk scored the tying run for Wesleyan on an infield hit. Jacobson, who started twirling for the Red and Black, was easy for the Aggies. In the first inning, after O'Brien fanned, Makofski and Ahern received free tickets. Makofski scored on Wardles double to left. Ahern scored a minute later on a sacrifice by Gilbert. Wardle scored the third run of the inning on Tiernan's hit.

Wesleyan came back strong in their half of the inning and scored two runs. Smith singled. Wielland sacrificed him along. O'Brien to Makofski. Harward flied to Gilbert in right. Reynolds got on thru O'Brien's error. Then a timely hit by Dietter scored Smith and Reynolds but Dietter tried to stretch it and got nipped at the plate, after a pretty relay, Gilbert to Schofield to Wardle.

Schofield made the longest hit of the game in the fifth inning. Porter was doing the tossing for Wesleyan. Billy drove a fast ball over Dietter's head in center and rounded the bases as Dietter struggled to recover the ball.

Nanfeldt, the Aggie moundsman, with excellent support behind him, pitched great ball until the seventh inning, keeping the Red and Black batters completely at sea with a teasing slow ball. In the seventh, after his teammates had added two more runs for him, he seemed to break. Schwegel made first on an error by Ahern. Then Funk and Nichols flied to Schofield and Ahern, making two out and a man on first. Then the thing happened. Smith got his third hit of the game and Wielland followed with line drive over second putting Schwegel over the plate. Makofski then took up the pitching duties and was greeted with a double off Harward's bat, scoring Wielland and Smith. The score remained 6-5 until the eighth when Funk scored from second on an infield hit.

With none gone in the first of the ninth, Seymour reached first on Funk's error. He took second on a passed ball and then stole third as Tiernan fanned. Gilbert was out when he bunted foul on his third strike. Wells who replaced Makofski in the box, received a free ticket to first. Seymour was nipped between third and home, killing the Aggies chance to pull into the lead. Coach Dougherty made a strong bid for victory by throwing in many of his reserves. Manuel batted for Weiland in the ninth but was thrown out at first by O'Brien. Haward went out by the same route. Reynolds received a walk and Bittenbender, running for him, stole second but Wells tightened and struck out Dietter for the last out of the game.

Smith, Wesleyan's freshman second baseman, starred for his team, getting three hits and a sacrifice in five times at bat. He also handled his four chances in the field without an error.

VARSITY LETTERS ARE PRESENTED BY HOLLISTER EIGHTEEN IN FOOTBALL

Hollister Urges Student Body to Cooperate with Athletic Council in Completing Athletic Field Project.

Varsity letters in football and basketball were presented to Connecticut Aggie athletes today at President's Hour by Professor S. P. Hollister of the Athletic Council. Eighteen letters in football, the largest number awarded in several years, and nine letters in basketball, were awarded in all.

Prior to the presentation of the letters, Prof. Hollister urged the students to cooperate with the Athletic Council in the construction of a new athletic field at Storrs by giving their services for two hours a week for the next three weeks. Work was started on this field last fall, with students and faculty members alike doing practically all of the work. Much progress was made up to the time the ground froze, when work was abandoned until it could be taken up again this spring. Prof. Hollister pointed out that there was but little work remaining to be done on the project and that a new field would be available for the 1925 gridiron season if the students would continue with the work.

Varsity letters in football, eighteen in number, were presented to the following: Captain Martin L. O'Neil, '25; Captain-elect Carl B. Brink, '26; Maxson A. Eddy, '25; Herbert E. Eyre, '25; David L. McAllister, '26; Tracy M. Swem, '25; William O. Thomson, '25; Carl L. Fienneman, '26; Robert S. Filmer, '26; Wallace S. Moreland, '26; Arthur E. Zollin, '27; William K. Schofield, '27; Oscar M. Nanfeldt, '26; John J. Daly, '27; Paul E. Bitgood, '26; John W. Ballock, '25; William Makofski, '26; and Manager Raymond Keeler '25.

Letters in basketball, nine in number, were presented to the following: Captain John W. Ballock, '25; Captain-elect William Makofski, '26; Marshall L. Seymour, '26; Maxson A. Eddy, '25; Paul E. Bitgood, '26; Gerald D. Allard, '26; William F. O'Brien, '25; William K. Schofield '27; and Manager John W. Goodrich '25.

"Now Jeanie, can you tell me what a myth is?"

"Yeth, ma'am," lisped Jeanie, "it ith a woman who hath not got a huth-band."

M. G. Moore was elected basketball manager. J. F. Gallant and L. R. Belden were elected assistant managers of basketball.

JUNIORS WIN CLASS HOOP CHAMPIONSHIP EXTRA GAME A THRILLER

Donovan Stars for Juniors—Fist Fight in Second Half Threatens to Stop Game—Third Year Juniors Have Won.

The Class of 1926 won the inter-class basketball championship on April 6, when in hard fought and thrilling game they defeated the sophomores 30-25. The contest was an extra game that was required to settle the championship, for both teams were tied for top honors at the completion of the regular schedule. Donovan and Kramer came to blows in the second half, and were separated with difficulty only after the male members of both classes had flocked to the floor from the sidelines; some to join the scrap and other to pry apart the participants. Order was finally restored by Coaches Dole and Guyer, after which the game went on to completion.

Donovan was the big gun in the offense of the juniors, tallying nine times from the floor and putting up a great defensive game. Quigley also put up a great game for the juniors, keeping Kramer, sophomore star to 3 lone baskets. By virtue of their victory, the juniors retain their championship habits, as this makes the third consecutive time that the class of 1926 have come out on top in the class hoop scramble.

ECONOMICS CLASS HAS INTERESTING TRIP

Two Days of Metropolis Work Proves Helpful to Class

The members of the Economics V. class in Marketing enjoyed recently a very interesting trip to New York. Each year Professor Davis takes his class on this trip to afford them an opportunity to view the markets and exchanges in operation which pertain directly to the subject matter studied in class.

The class traveled to New York in two sections. Some took the night boat from New London and met the others, who came by auto, in New York the next morning. Those who made the trip by boat saw much that was interesting on the way, especially as the boat made its regular circuit around lower Manhattan Island.

Among the places visited the first day were, the Citrus Fruit Auction, the Deciduous Fruit Auction, the Mercantile Exchange, the New York Stock Exchange, the offices of the United States Government, Reporting Service, the offices of the State of New York Marketing Authorities, and the $5,000,000 Public Market at Newark, New Jersey.

The class made their headquarters at the Prince George Hotel, which proved to be uniquely located to the numerous markets which were studied early the second morning. These included the Fruit and Vegetable Markets on the R. R. piers, the Live Poultry Market, the local meat packing houses, the Minnesota Cooperative Creameries, and several large refrigerating companies where these products are stored.

An interesting incident occurred on the trip, when one of the members of the class without knowing the finger signals used on the fruit auctioned, raised his hand as a gesture, and at the same time almost purchased enough oranges to keep the Dining Hall supplied for the next year. Fortunately one of his competitors on the auction came to his rescue and raised the bid from the 10 cents per crate to a higher level, which took the allotment of 40 crates.

Several current show offerings claimed the attention of the men during their stay, adding a little more spice to the occasion.

The trip consumed two days in all, the last half day being given over to the groups which wanted to study those activities not already covered during the previous sessions.

ago was composed of Irene Cooke, Pauline Graf, Christine McMenemy, Hazel Clark, Alice Hubbard, Marie Bronson and Dorothy Stellenwerf. This group of girls is back in the dormitory again and a second group composed of Katharine Manchester, Cora Lavalley, Helen Slanetz, Mary Cappola, Florence Bailey, Hannah Jensen, Mary Griffin and Pauline Girard, will take up the house management for the remainder of the semester.

SH—! MYSTERY! THE RED OWL!!

CAMPUS SLEUTH AT WORK

Mysterious Appearance of Red Owl on College Bulletin Boards—Campus Ornithologist After Strenuous Research Digs up Treatise on Ominous Bird.

The Campus takes pride in announcing that, in accordance with its policy of giving the college all the news of the college, an investigation is being conducted under the direction of the Board as to the purpose and significance of the drawings of owls which have recently made their appearance on the college bulletin boards. While the ultimate solution of the mystery is still in doubt, the private detective employed by the Campus assures us that he has several promising clues and that he should be able to present full and complete facts in time for the next issue.

In the meantime the Campus ornithologist has undertaken some high speed research and is preparing a treatise on owls. We quote from a preliminary draft of this treatise:

"The etymology of the word 'owl' has been in the past a subject of bitter dispute. The present generally accepted hypothesis that it is derived from the Anglo-Saxon 'ule' and that it is probably at least partially onomatopoeic in origin may be accepted as plausible.

"Any bird of prey of the family Strigidae (or the suborder Striges) is an owl; nor is the family noted so much for its exclusiveness as for the fact that its members are chiefly nocturnal in their habits. The feathers of all owls are so soft as to make their flight almost noiseless.

"The cry of the owl varies in tone with the age and circumstances of the bird. The following passage from Shakespeare's 'Love's Labor Lost' will be familiar to all Campus readers.

"Then nightly sang the staring owl
Tu-who

Tu-whit, tu-whoo—a merry note...."

This 'merry note', however, is characteristic only of the adolescent male owl when he is returning from Willi. The cry of owls in ordinary circumstances is penetrating and awe-inspiring in the extreme. On one occasion at least it is known to have caused indirectly the death of a mature and healthy Strepsiceros strepsiceros, or African antelope. The poor beast was so frightened on hearing the cry that his knees began to knock together and were completely demolished from the force of the blows given each other; the antelope was so mortified that he lay down and cried himself to death.

"The posters which have recently made their appearance in the vicinity are apparently supposed to represent a specimen of the strix asio or red own."

Watch for further news in next week's Campus!
